Claim Violation of Neutrality and Republic Retorts in Kind

TOKIO, Aug. 24.—Although she declared war on Germany yesterday at noon Japan will not begin offensive operations against Kaio Chau until a note has been sent to the German governor of the province urging him to surrender. This announcement was made here today. The action was decided upon to avoid bloodshed. It is learned the American consul at Kaio Chau remains.

Vice Admiral Tomosaburo Kato has been appointed commander in chief of the first battle squadron now at the front; Vice Admiral Sadakichi Kato commander of the second and Rear Admiral Tsuchiya of the third. The first and second squadrons will operate against Kaio Chau while the third will be used to patrol the Chinese coast and to watch for any German cruisers that may elude the blockading fleet.

Governor Defiant
Copies of a proclamation issued by Mayer Waldeck, the governor of Kaio Chau, telegraphed here, report him as saying:

"If the enemy wishes the concession he will have to come and take it. He will find us at our posts. We look confidently into the future and we are well prepared to receive the enemy."

Germany Protests to China
PEKIN, Aug. 24.—Germany has protested to China that the republic has been aiding Japan in the far eastern trouble and violating neutrality. China replied to this that the warlike naval operations of the Germans in the Orient have been calculated to violate the principles of the agreement whereby the Peking government leased Kaio Chau to the Kaiser.

Germany forcibly leased Kaio Chau from China, announcing that the action was taken in reprisal against the Peking government for the killing of several German missionaries by Chinese. The Kaiser agreed that the German occupation would be peaceful at all times, and China now asserts this agreement has not been respected.

AUSTRIA PLANNING BLOW ON ITALY?

Italian Feeling Is that She Is Slowly Being Dragged Into Conflict

ROME, Aug. 24.—The king and cabinet are in almost continuous conference. The feeling continues to increase that the country is slowly, but steadily being forced into a position when she will be compelled to strike, not with Austria, but against her. It is declared that the Austrian army, having abandoned its attempt to reduce Serbia, now intends to mass all her troops available on the Italian border. Already many are here and it will be a very difficult task to avoid a clash. Meanwhile the premier declared today that Italy was still determined to maintain her neutrality, if that is possible.

Russian Chief Asserts that Forces Which Bore Brunt of Defense Lost Heavily

ST. PETERSBURGH, Aug. 24.—The official report of Gen. Rennenkamp, who is in command of the Russian advance in eastern Prussia, claims that the greater part of eastern Prussia is now dominated by the Russians. He says: "We hold the railroads and have captured Gumbinnen, Insterburg, Ortelsburg, and Johannisburg. The twentieth German army corps, which bore the brunt of our attack was practically cut to pieces. We have taken seven thousand prisoners, in addition to the guns already reported."

The general staff today stated that the Russians operating against the Austrians have followed up their initial victories with further successes. It states that the Russian cavalry sent to meet the Austrians who have been attacking Vladimir Volnsk routed them with heavy loss. On Saturday the announcement says, nine Russian squadrons attacked a force of more than twice their number near the station of Pluchow. In the battle that followed the Austrians were defeated and the Russians took two mounted batteries and 160 prisoners.

The Russian northern army is moving rapidly along the railway from Insterburg. The Russian front is many miles long.

The fighting has been of desperate character and the war office claims the fighting effectiveness of the three German corps which have been bearing the brunt of the defense has been seriously impaired.

The Russian center today was between Insterburg and Norkitten, while the front extended in a half circle from Grunheide on the north far south into the lake region.

Unnaturalized citizens of La Crosse who desire to vote at the La Crosse election next spring must make application for their second naturalization papers within thirty days. Clerk of Court Hardy Dennison said this morning papers must be advertised for thirty days prior to the term of court in which the papers are granted.

Saturday was the last day upon which prospective candidates in La Crosse county might file nomination papers. County Clerk Bert A. Jolivet said this morning that no "eleventh hour" candidates had appeared.

FRANCIS JOSEPH IS REPORTED TO BE SERIOUSLY ILL

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Dispatches from Rome, Paris and several other points today reported that Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria was seriously ill but there was no official confirmation anywhere. Communication with Austria is practically shut off, the few dispatches which filtered across the frontier taking days to get through, and it is impossible to confirm these reports.

GERMANS WIRELESS REPORT OF VICTORY OF CROWN PRINCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Through the German wireless station at Sayville, Long Island, today, the German ambassador received a message reporting a victory by the German crown prince over five French army corps near Metz. The wireless message from Berlin read as follows: "The army of the German crown prince won a decisive victory northwest of Diedenhofen, near Metz, over five French army corps. The retreat of the southern French wing on Verdun has been cut off. French troops repulsed toward the river Meuse. Complete rout. The crown prince's army giving chase took prisoners and declared the French troops are no longer able to face the terrible fire of the German troops."

THE WAR AT A GLANCE

ENGLAND—Admission that British expeditionary force is holding fast under a terrific German assault at Mons, Belgium, causes enthusiasm. The British losses are admittedly heavy, but all details are withheld for the present.

FRANCE—The war office says result of battle now in progress along the entire front from Audenarde, Belgium, across that country, through Luxemburg, along the Lorraine frontier and through Alsace to the Swiss frontier may not be known for several days. The main armies are now admittedly in contact, with enormous losses on both sides.

Germans have occupied Luneville and are reported as threatening Nancy, and to be headed for the gap between Toul and Epinal. It is admitted the allies hope to hold the Germans until they are compelled to weaken their forces on the western frontier to meet the Russian assault on the east.

BELGIUM—Belgian army penned up in Antwerp, plans a flank attack upon the Germans if they are held by the allies.

RUSSIA—War office claims Russian advance has penetrated fifty miles into eastern Prussia and controls important railways centering at Insterburg. Official announcement says three German army corps have been defeated and one, the twentieth, cut to pieces and several thousand taken prisoners. Advance into Austria also reported as progressing rapidly. French premier has officially congratulated Grand Duke Nicholas on his victories.

GERMANY—Belated reports via various frontier points say Germans claim decisive victories in the initial fighting and profess supreme confidence that the defense of the allies will be overcome. Hospitals in the Berlin suburbs are already crowded with wounded.

JAPAN—Censorship withholds news of progress of fleet or army sent to Kaio Chau. It is stated that the German commander will be asked to surrender peacefully and so avoid loss of life.

AUSTRIA—Unconfirmed reports that Emperor Francis Joseph is seriously ill have reached Rome, but communication direct with Vienna to secure details of his exact condition, is impossible.

SERBIA—War office at Nish announces that the Austrian invasion has been completely abandoned and confirms earlier reports of sweeping Serbian victories along the Drina, where many pieces, guns and munitions have been captured.

ROME—Reports that the Italian army, together with the home defense, is to be mobilized this week and that war will be declared on Austria, continue in circulation in Rome. The government remains silent regarding its intentions.

C. W. Dow, 228 South Sixteenth street, for sixteen years a resident of La Crosse and manager of the R. G. Dun company, has been promoted to the management of the Minneapolis office of the Dunn people to succeed W. A. Glass, who has been transferred to Omaha.

Mr. Dow will be succeeded here by Robert S. MacDonald, for twenty-five years connected with the La Crosse agency.

During his sixteen years in La Crosse, Mr. Dow has accumulated a host of friends, who are sorry to see him leave, but who, waiving personal regard, are pleased at his promotion to a post so important.

"I am sorry to leave La Crosse," said Mr. Dow this morning, "and it is needless to say that nothing aside from a splendid promotion would have induced me to go to the Twin Cities."

Mr. Dow in 1892 was American consul at Zanzibar and has spent several years in India, Arabia and other countries. He was appointed to the Zanzibar post by President Harrison and later served under Cleveland.

He officially assumed charge of the Twin City office last Wednesday night and tonight he leaves for that place to remain permanently. Mr. Dow will not take his family to Minneapolis immediately.

COST IN LIVES TO BE ENORMOUS

War Experts Believe that Desperate Fighting Will Result in Terrible Loss

PARIS, Aug. 24.—The war office late tonight refused to discuss the situation at the front. Whispers that the Germans had broken the allied center were current, but were impossible of verification. The war office reiterated its declaration of the morning that the battle was still in progress and that several days might be required before a definite result could be announced.

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Acting purely on the defensive, the French and British allied army continued today to hold back the enormous German war machine. For three days the tide of battle has steadily risen, but today it is still far from reaching the flood.

At some points the defense wall has been partly wrecked only to be restored by crushing reinforcements in desperate haste. At others, the German infantry, unable to penetrate the withering hail of bullets and the fire of the thousands of machine guns already in action, has fallen back, checked but not defeated. The carnage has been fearful. The chiefs at the war office calmly say, in terse language, that the dead and wounded already outnumber those of any battle in modern times. Three great German armies, the bulk of the Kaiser's war machine, are advancing steadily in a determined attempt to break the allied line and penetrate French territory. Behind them are the reserves, totalling more than a million additional men. But up to the present time, the allied lines have held and the war office official bulletin characterizes the general situation as "satisfactory."

The German army operating in Lorraine has gained a foothold in the department of Meurthe-et-Moselle. Luneville has been occupied. Nancy is endangered. One report says it has been already occupied, but this the war office denied. Germans driven from Pont-a-Mousson, on Saturday, reoccupied the town on Sunday. The army operating here is that which came from Metz.

WAR AGAINST PUBLIC OPTIMISM

Declare People Must Not Expect Too Much as Result of Present Battle

DENUDE BRITAIN OF ALL TROOPS

No Secret Made of Necessity of Reinforcing French with Every Available Man

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The first line of allied defense in Belgium has been broken by the German attack, which has been in progress all through Belgium today, and has fallen back to the second line of defense on the French frontier. This was admitted by the official press bureau here this afternoon. The war office explained, however, that this withdrawal was in accordance with the original plans, and was for strategic reasons only.

Taken with the circulation of a rumor in Paris that the Germans had pierced the center of the allies' line of battle, the admission of the British authorities is believed to mean that the Germans, by weight of numbers, have rolled back the English-French line at some points, at least.

The battle began yesterday, and was in progress all day, with the allies' lines extending clear across Belgium into Luxemburg, and with the Germans attacking in force along the entire front. The chief fighting was along the outline of a huge figure Z, extending from Audenarde east to Brussels, thence southwest to Mons, and from Mons east again to Namur. The most desperate engagement was reported from Mons and Charleroi, on the line between Brussels and Mons.

By ED L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Aug. 24.—So serious is the situation along the lines held by the allied armies, that the war office refuses to permit any information about the fighting to be made public. Only a brief statement was forthcoming today. It declared that the British regulars were in action. They were stated to be holding the German advance in check at Mons and that they had been in action since Sunday. But no comment on what is transpiring in the entire territory, where the greatest armies of modern times are locked in a Titanic struggle, is forthcoming.

Warn Against Optimism

The British public was again warned today that it must not expect too much from the allies. Military experts have insisted that it will be an almost impossible task to hold the present advanced lines, and today they were explaining to the public that if the allies fall back to their secondary line along the French frontier, it will be purely a strategic movement and not an admission of defeat.

Meanwhile, the work of preparing further troops for foreign service is being rushed with great speed.

High military authorities make no secret of the great necessity of reinforcing the French now in the field. They say the German advance must be held at any cost until the armies of the czar have struck all along the Austrian-German line. To hold the Germans in check is admittedly a task that will test to the utmost the resources of the empire. So Earl Kitchener is rushing his raw troops through the necessary instruction, while he is demanding the British Isles of all available regulars of every branch.

Disquieting rumors of attempts on the fleet by air craft are circulated.

THE GOOD ANGEL

By LOUISE OLIVER

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

They called her their guardian angel, this little Nansheki, with her cherubic smile and eyes as black as sloes, that were so full of understanding.

Bert Harworth and Leona Farley always waited for their tea until Nansheki's busy fingers could serve it. Others demanded the little Japanese girl as well as they, so they were always patient. It was an excuse to prolong the almost daily tete-a-tete to which they both looked forward—Bert after a busy day in the office and Leona after shopping or a matinee.

Nansheki was called their guardian angel for several reasons. First because, with her little sloe eyes, she had interpreted the situation at once when Bert had been introduced to Leona one wintry afternoon by a friend in the tea room. She had seen the look of interest and admiration that had leaped into the man's eyes while Leona was acknowledging the introduction with her prettiest smile. And she had smiled knowingly to herself, when afterwards she had found his tea and muffin altogether untouched, at the place which he had confiscated beside his pretty new acquaintance.

After that Bert had managed to come to the tea room almost every day at 5. Sometimes Leona was not there. On such days Nansheki knew that it was useless to tempt his appetite. Dear knows he ate little enough the other times! He was too busy looking at and listening to the girl beside him.

At both sides of the softly lighted room were little retreats where one—or two—could have his tea in private and at the same time hear the music of the little orchestra. For the Japanese have a way of retiring from the world without the use of thick walls and solid doors. Heavy curtains of beads, with an artistic arrangement of artificial boughs, screened the occupants of those little stalls from the eyes of those in the main tea room.

Everywhere was a sort of orange twilight from a hundred vari-colored Japanese lanterns.

One day Nansheki adroitly filled up her tables with a reckless heedlessness of space. When Leona appeared for her cup of tea not a vacant table remained.

"Why, Nanny, what has happened today that you forgot us? I mean," she colored—"you have always been so good about reserving a table for two."

Nansheki was desolated. How had it happened? But suddenly she had a thought. A stall? Wouldn't the lady like one for today? It cost so little more. And for two—so cozy.

Leona hesitated, then smiled. "Why, just the thing! Tell Mr. Harworth if he comes in just where I am, will you Nanny? That is if he asks for me," she added.

And Nansheki did as she was bidden. And after she had delivered his order she kept wisely away. How beautifully her plan had worked out.

When they emerged later to go home they were so radiantly happy! And Bert had pressed a bill into Nansheki's tiny hand. "Wish us happiness, Nansheki. We are going to be married! We'll have to call you our guardian angel."

After that they came together almost every day, and the little waitress hovered around delightedly. She loved to catch the sparkle of the little lady's ring. No one else dared to take their order. They were her property absolutely.

Then the sky fell. Nansheki foresaw the trouble long before it really happened, for it took days and weeks to reach the stage where it broke the little lady's heart. The little Japanese girl saw the look in the wicked lady's eyes that she knew boded ill for the happiness of her idol.

Nansheki had not always had the honor of serving in a fashionable tea room. When she first came to America, Kinsanui, her father's friend, who had promised to get her work, and who had incidentally collected her wages and sent only half to the parent, keeping all the rest as commission—Kinsanui had only been able to get her a place at serving in a restaurant, where things stronger than tea were in demand.

When two years later Nansheki saw the "wicked lady," as she called her, in the tea room, she recognized her at once. She rubbed a scar on her own little neck nervously. A wine glass thrown at the little Japanese girl for a mistake in the order had cut deeply.

Now, however, the wicked lady did not look the same. Her clothes were so beautiful and her air was what the Americans call "haughty."

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Butterfly That Was Beautiful And Useful.

She Turned and Followed It.

"I SAW the most gorgeous butterflies today, daddy," said Evelyn one evening. "They had more colors than Solomon or Joseph's coat."

"I'm much obliged to you, Evelyn," said daddy. "You have put me in mind of a story, and I didn't really know what I was going to tell you children tonight."

"Well, this story is about how a butterfly brought good luck to a little girl. This little girl was about three years old, and she was an only child. She lived with her papa and mamma on a farm out in the beautiful country, for I think the country is beautiful whether it's in the summer or in the winter. Besides, winter gives that great artist, Jack Frost, an opportunity to draw funny pictures on the panes.

"When this story happened, however, it was in the summer, when the grain stood up golden and tall and the birds sang and the sky was a lovely blue. It was early in the afternoon, and everything was so beautiful out of doors that this naughty little girl ran away, as little girls will and little boys too.

"Her mamma was busy with the housework, as mamma's are apt to be most of the time, and didn't see her go. She wandered down in the field near the house and through the tall grass, and she picked the yellow buttercups and the white daisies and listened to the breeze singing the sweetest song that ever was, and by and by she found some little red berries—lucky they were not poisonous berries—and ate them, and she was so little that you could just see the top of her pink sunbonnet in the tall grass, and none of the men working in the field noticed her at all.

"She went on and on forever so long a time till the sun had begun to get low, and then she came to the edge of a deep brook hidden in the tall grass and ever so far from her home, and in another instant she would have stepped off into it.

"But just at that moment a beautiful butterfly flew past her, fluttering toward her home. She turned and followed it. Every little while it rested on a flower, and then it would sail away again, and it led her home. What do you think of that? Her mother had been very much frightened and was so glad when she told her she had followed the butterfly home. But her mamma didn't know that the butterfly had saved her life."

Jack looked puzzled. "But, daddy," he said, "if the mamma didn't know it and the little girl didn't know it, how did you know it?"

"Oh," said daddy, laughing, "perhaps the butterfly told me."

"Now I've got you!" giggled Jack. "Butterflies can't talk. Daddy, that's

Admiral von Tirpitz German Naval Chief

One of the iron men of Germany is Admiral von Tirpitz, secretary of the navy and chief of the admiralty. He has built up the German fleet under the direction of the Kaiser, and he has prepared for the moment that has come.

The fleet is now bottled in the Baltic, held there by the British fleet which is so much stronger that a battle would be foolish. But the fleet is strong enough to hold the Russians from trying to attack German Baltic cities or to land a force. In fact, it is powerful enough to clear away obstructions and possibly later land a force which may try to march into St. Petersburg.

And she was with people who were rich and wore fine clothes.

Yes, she was different—all but her eyes. Inside she was the same. And when she looked at Mr. Harworth, the "little lady's" gentleman, Nansheki in her corner grew uneasy. She predicted trouble, and she was right.

Gradually Bert stooped coming to the tea room at 5. Leona would sit pretending to sip her tea and finally go home alone.

Then the "little lady" herself failed to appear one day, and she never came after that.

The next time Bert came to the tea room he was with the "wicked lady." The little Japanese girl picked up a corner of her broad sash and walked sedately away.

She was sad and unhappy these days. If she only knew where the little lady lived she would go to her. But what could she do? She knew that no words of hers could comfort a broken heart.

The weeks dragged along, and Nansheki had given up hope of seeing Leona again, when one day she slipped in out of the street and sat down at one of the tables. The little waitress scarcely knew her, she was so thin and pale.

Scarcely was she seated when Nansheki saw her enemy at the door about to enter. "Come, lady, please, over here," imploringly to Leona, who rose unresistingly and followed the little waitress to a stall, where she was protected from the prying eyes of the hated one.

When Bert Harworth arrived and another waitress glided up to him with "Will the gentleman please step over here?" indicating a table where the wicked lady was waiting, Nansheki elbowed her out of the way.

"Mr. Harworth, please come with me," she quietly insisted, touching his arm with her hand. Bert followed and passed her as she stepped aside holding the beads out of the way. He entered the little, softly lighted stall where the girl sat alone.

Nansheki was nowhere in sight when they came out. But somewhere a pair of eyes as black as sloes was watching for them, and when they saw the wonderful look in the "little lady's" face, all aglow with happiness, and the way the young gentleman was watching her, as

Magical Effect of New Face Peeler

To maintain a clear, white, youthful complexion, there's nothing so simple to use and yet so effective as ordinary mercurized wax, which you can get at any drug-store. Just apply the wax at night as you would cold cream. In the morning wash it off with warm water. If you've never tried it you can't imagine the magical effect of this harmless home treatment. It causes the old worn-out scurf skin to come off in minute particles, a little at a time, and soon you have entirely shed the offensive cuticle. The fresh young under-skin now in evidence is so healthy and girlish looking, so free from any appearance of artificiality, you wonder why you had not heard of this marvelous complexion-renewing secret long ago. Equally magical in its action is a simple wrinkle-removing lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered azoite in a half pint of witch hazel. Rubbing the face in this for two or three minutes immediately affects every line and furrow and improves facial contour wonderfully.

Not Worth a Rush.

The expression "Not worth a rush" is as a popular saying the predecessor of the now more common simile "Not worth a straw." In pre-carpet days it was the custom to strew the floors of dwelling houses. When guests of rank were entertained fresh rushes were spread for them, but folk of lower degree had to be content with rushes that had already been used, while still humbler persons had none, as not even being "worth a rush."—London Standard.

EAGLES BEATEN BY ONALASKANS

Accident to Roeder Starts Bad Inning; First Game Lost by Eagles in Two Months

ROCKSTAD STAR AT THE BAT

Weeks Plays Good Game Behind the Bat; Fitch Relieves Ritter and Holds Opaccos Helpless

One bad inning, the result of an accident to Bobby Roeder, beat the Eagles yesterday in their game with the Opaccos of Onalaska at League park. In that inning, the Onalaskans ran in seven scores.

The jig was off when Comeau collided with Roeder at second, Bobby taking a throw from Weeks. He had his man by a big margin when the Onalaskan ran into him, knocking him windless. He dropped the ball, and Comeau was safe. Hits by Hodge, Thompson, E. Christopherson, Frenz and Phelps and a base on balls to Bucklin resulted in seven runs. With one out, Ritter retired in favor of Fitch. Comeau was out to Beranek and F. Christopherson fouled to Hackner.

After the sixth, Fitch held the Opaccos helpless, Phelps being the only man to reach second. Only one hit was made off Fitch in his three and two-thirds innings on the mound.

Rockstad scored for the Eagles in the fourth on a single, a stolen base, a sacrifice by Ritter and a single by Weeks over deep left field. Hackner counted in the sixth on a pass, a sacrifice by Fitch, a stolen base and an error. In the eighth, with the odds heavily against them, the locals squeezed in three more runs. Rockstad and Weeks singled and stole second, Wall singled, Johnson was hit and Keaveney reached first on Phelps' error. Rockstad, Weeks and Wall scored.

Inability of the Eagles to hit in the pinches lost them the game. Christopherson was extremely wild, but made up in part by whiffing twelve opposing batters. Ritter struck out six and Fitch three. The score:

ALL LIVING FORMER GOVERNORS WILL BE AT 1914 STATE FAIR

Milwaukee, July 28.—The Wisconsin State Board of Agriculture has made a slight change in its program of days for the 1914 fair. Milwaukee day, instead of coming on Thursday, will be Tuesday, Sept. 15, this year. The board made this change in order that Milwaukee might have more than one opportunity to turn out in event of bad weather. The days selected by the board are as follows:

Monday, Sept. 14, Automobile day.....Automobile races.
Tuesday, Sept. 15, Milwaukee day.....Lincoln Beachey in aviation exhibitions three times, harness and running races.
Wednesday, Sept. 16, State and Governors' day.....Lincoln Beachey in three exhibition fights, harness and running races; Gov. McGovern, ex-governors and candidates in attendance.
Thursday, Sept. 17, National day.....President Wilson or another well known national figure expected to attend; Lincoln Beachey in three fights; harness and running races.
Friday, Sept. 18, Children's day.....Lincoln Beachey in three fights, probably to attend; Lincoln Beachey in three fights; harness and running races.

Efforts are being made by the board to induce President Wilson to be present on Thursday, National day. If the President makes a western trip at that time, he will attend the fair. In the event that President Wilson does not come west, an effort will be made to have as a special guest Roosevelt, Taft or some one equally well known nationally.

On State day, when politicians attend the fair, the Governor and all living ex-governors will be invited guests. Gov. McGovern probably will speak, with others.

NELSONS LOSE TO PRAIRIE PLAYERS

Errors behind Squiers lost him the game yesterday to Prairie du Chien, as the big hurler held the downriver men to one hit, an honor, shared by Groff who showed the same generosity to the Nelsons.

Only four balls passed the infield during the game. Colton, right-fielder of the Prairies, gobbled up bingles in his section of the garden and featured the game by his base-running.

The score:
Nelsons... 100000000-1 1 4
Prairie du Chien... 0000011X-2 1 2

Batteries: Squiers and Childers; Groff and Lourty.

CITY TITLE SERIES TO BEGIN SUNDAY

Nelsons Meet the Eagles in First Game to Decide Championship of the City

The first game of the city series will be played next Sunday at League park when the Nelsons meet the Eagles. Managers Evenson and Ritter have arranged for a series of the best two out of three games.

Comparative merits of the two teams are about equal, although the Eagles have more victories to their credit than have the Nelsons. Houston has beaten the Nelsons while the Eagles have taken two games from the Minnesotans. The Eagles also have two victories over Rushford to their credit.

Both teams have lost to the Winona Schellhas, whatever that may signify.

Wonderful Sewers.

The sewers of Paris are the most wonderful in the world and constitute one of the sights of the city. Visitors are allowed to inspect them on certain days each week, and it is certainly an experience to make a "personally conducted" tour of the two main sewers. The journey is made on electric cars and launches, which draw up occasionally at brightly illuminated stations.

Who started the idea that an owl looks wise?

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissue clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active. Agent, Chas. A. Beyschlag, druggist, 503 Main street.

The Difference

A story is told of an Irish sailor who decided to walk from Newport to Cardiff. He met a cart driver and asked:

"How far is it from Newport to Cardiff?"

"Twelve miles, mister," was the reply.

"Thankee," said Pat. "An' how far is it from Cardiff to Newport?"

Driver—Didn't I tell you how far it was from Newport to Cardiff? Do you suppose it is any further the other way back?

Irishman—Sure, and I don't know.
I know it is a great deal further from New Year's day to Christmas than from Christmas to New Year's day.—Western Mail.

Improving Submarines.

The day is approaching when sea-going submarines of high surface speed will accompany the main fleet on the high seas. Large vessels of this type, of 21 knots speed, have been designed for the United States navy. Great Britain is building, in the Nautilus, the largest submarine in existence, which is intended to be as seaworthy while on the surface as the latest type of destroyer. Its surface speed will be not less than 21 knots, and it will have a submerged speed of from 15 to 16 knots; it will carry six torpedo tubes, and the surface displacement will be about one thousand five hundred tons.

The General Says:

When we began our career
in the manufacture of roofing, we were only a modest little organization in a big competitive field. Today we manufacture a much greater quantity of ready-to-lay roofings and a much greater tonnage of building papers than any competitor in the world. This remarkable growth is the result of the universal satisfaction given by

Roofing

Durability
Guaranteed

—the roofing that has become recognized as superior to all others in quality and durability.

Certain-teed Roofing is guaranteed 5 years for 1-ply, 10 years for 2-ply, and 15 years for 3-ply, and this guarantee is backed by the assets of our three big mills.

Our modern manufacturing methods and large output enable us to reduce the cost of production—and hence the selling price
—to a minimum.

Hence you do not have to listen to the old argument "high price, high quality," or
"low price, low quality."

Certain-teed Roofing is the highest quality possible to make. It is for sale by dealers everywhere at reasonable prices.

COMPETITION.

The Kind That Wins.

In fair competition lies the true sport of good business. There is no calling, no profession, or occupation, equal to it for absorbing interest and endless succession of exciting incident. But it should be that kind of a healthy competition and friendly rivalry that does not strain neigh-borly relations. On the contrary, it should tend to bring those men together who are engaged in a similar business for the purpose of free discussion and publicity of opinion.

Unfortunately, this does not often occur. Men engaged in a like business sometimes get too friendly, combine their interests, and form a combination, contrary to the laws of the realm.

Others enter into a bitter personal conflict with each other, endeavoring with might and main to throw ignominy upon and disrespect for the house of their competitors and their goods.

The intensity of the competitive struggle is subject to a great deal of variation. At times it may be characterized as cut-throat, where the slashing of prices has for its object the elimination of one or more of the contestants. Each competitor is confronted by the ever-present threat that if his service is poor, or the quality of his goods is not up to the standard, some other house of business will outstrip him. But the house that considers service, high quality and no more than a fair profit, the paramount factors in business, is the one that in the long run is sure to win.

Some Investment

Here is one that was told by A. Z.
Baker, the author, at a social function, the other evening, when the conversation turned to the ways of Wall street:

Some time ago Smith dined with a friend named Jones. Jones rallied around Wall street and had to do with stocks and bonds, and eventually the talk between the two traveled in that trend.

"By the way," Jones, remarked Smith, "I picked up something dirt cheap the other day. It stood at $3 when I bought it, and by the time I got home it had touched $9."

"Gee whiz!" exclaimed Jones.
"That's like having a donation party thrust on you! What was it?"

"A new thermometer," was the chuckling rejoinder of Smith.

Quick Growing Rice.

In Siam there is under cultivation a common sort of rice which in flood times grows as much as a foot in twelve hours, so that the plant often attains a height of ten feet in its efforts to keep its leaves above water.

Money talks, and even the purist is not averse to hearing the conversation of filthy lucre.

How Dr. Holmes Felt

Dr. Oliver W. Holmes was small in stature. Upon one occasion he was present at a meeting which happened to be attended by a number of very large men, thus making his diminutive size rather conspicuous in contrast. One of these men—doubtless wishing to make him feel at ease—came up to him and said:

"Well, Dr. Holmes, I should think you would feel rather small among all these fellows."

"I do," replied the doctor. "I feel like a three-cent piece among a lot of pennies."

ARE WOMEN NATURALLY DESPONDENT?

A prominent writer so claims.
Women are constituted with a delicate organism and in nine cases out of ten mental depression may be attributed to an abnormal condition of the system which expresses itself in nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, headaches, causing constant misery and as a result despondency. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a simple remedy made from roots and herbs, is the one great remedy for this condition. It goes to the root of the trouble and overcomes despondency.

BURYING OFFICERS KILLED IN A SORTIE

At the very beginning of the war, a skirmish was fought between the French and the Germans at Saarbruck, a little town near the border.
The casualties were slight, the French lost but two officers and a dozen soldiers. The next day a funeral service was held for the first victims of the war and they were buried in the village cemetery. The ceremony, although very simple, was impressive, the coffins were carried by fellow officers and a cross made of rough wood was planted on the temporary tombs. After the cessation of hostilities, the bodies will be sent to their respective families which will attend to the final burial in the home church yard.
